New art exhibit on local food appeals to all the senses

By APRIL VAN BUREN /PEOPLE/APRIL-VAN-BUREN • SEP 10, 2015

Between urban gardens and a wealth of farmers markets throughout the city, Lansing has developed a robust local food movement. Now, the Michigan Institute for Contemporary Art (http://www.micagallery.org/) is exploring the city’s local food culture in a new exhibit that touches all of the senses.

The MICA Gallery's 'Curating Roots' exhibition runs through the end of October.

APRIL VAN BUREN WKAR

Listen
8:06