CHAMBER MUSIC WEEKEND SERIES

Sensory Friendly Spartan Concert

Tasha Warren, director

with
Cononical Clarinets
Puddle of Wind
Quintessential Winds

Saturday, November 15, 2019
Cook Recital Hall, 3:00 p.m.
PROGRAM

Yellow Jersey
Libby Larsen (b. 1950)

Cononical Clarinets
Theresa Lam & Mia Zamora, clarinet

Trio
Mondonville (1711–1772)

Puddle of Wind
Emily Demske, oboe; Jeremy Makkonen, flute,
Gabby Levangie, english horn

Mladi
Leoš Janáček (1854–1928)

Allegro
Andante sostenuto

Ju-won An, flute; Andrea Silverio, oboe; Tiago Silva, clarinet,
Valerie Nuzzolo, bass clarinet; Kyle Sodman, bassoon,
Adam Huston, horn

3 Pièces brèves
Jacques Ibert (1890–1962)

Allegro
Andante
Assez Lent

Quintessential Winds
Janie Bylsma, flute; Olivia Banach, oboe
Isabella Kercorian, clarinet; Sanford Schwartz, bassoon
Alex Wolke, horn
Welcome to MSU College of Music’s Sensory Friendly Spartan Concert Series! These concerts are designed to welcome individuals with any type of sensory sensitivity but are open to everyone.

Invite your friends and family!
This is the main entrance of the building.
You will enter here to find Cook Recital Hall, just inside to your right.
This is what it looks like to enter the MSU College of Music. Music fills these hallways like this EVERY SINGLE DAY!
This is the hallway to Cook Recital Hall.
This is Cook Recital Hall, where our November Sensory Friendly Spartan Concert Series takes place.
Once the music starts, please feel free to enjoy the concert however you like. You can move, dance, sing, vocalize- there will be no shushing at these concerts!
Help yourself to egg shakers and scarves to feel more a part of the show. These will be passed around by volunteers wearing green shirts. Noise-reducing headphones will also be provided to anyone needing a break.
If you need a longer break, this is one of the three quiet rooms that you can go to. We have signs and volunteers to help you find them.
Take a bathroom break whenever you need to. Signs and volunteers in green shirts will point the way!
We hope that you are as excited about this program as we are.
See you soon! GO GREEN!! GO WHITE!!