

Welcome to MSU College of Music's sensory friendly spartan concert!

These Concerts are open to everyone and designed to be welcoming to anyone with sensory sensitivity.

The concert is located at Fairchild Theatre. There are two ways to enter the building:

This is the west entrance. If you take a bus it will probably drop you off here.

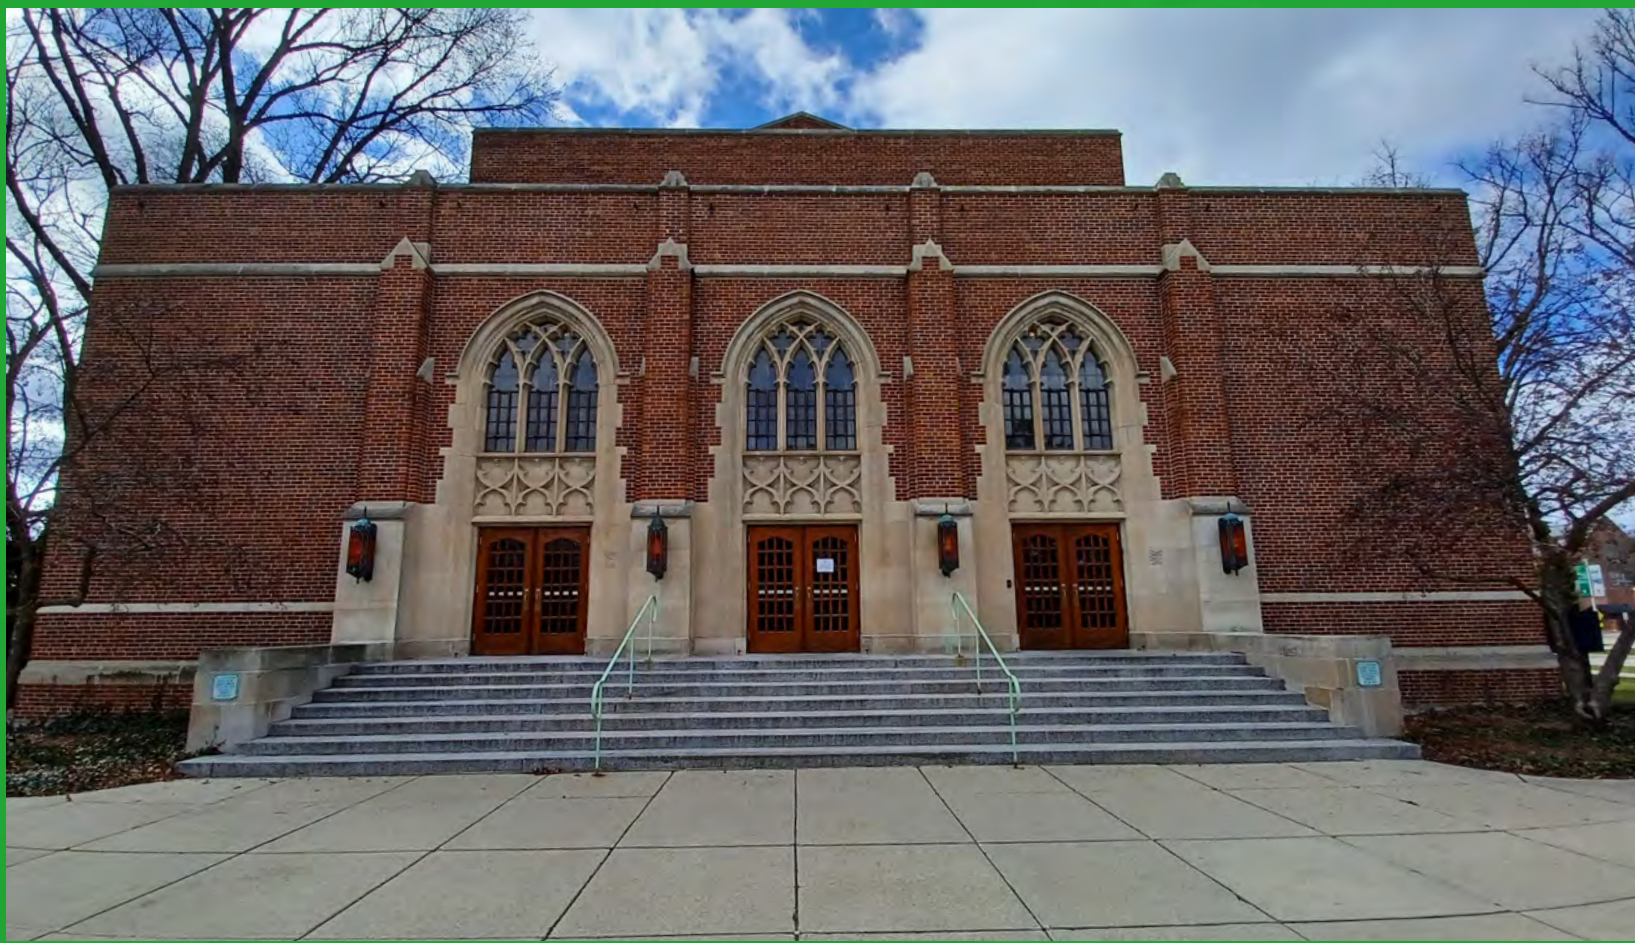

When you enter the building, you will be in the auditorium lobby.

From there, go through the doors below the green exit sign, turn left, and follow the long hallway all the way to Fairchild Theatre.

This is the East Entrance, which leads directly to the Fairchild lobby.

The wheelchair accessible entrance is also on this side of the building.

This is the lobby, where you will enter the theatre.

This is what the inside of the theatre looks like. You may sit wherever you like!

While the musicians are playing, feel free to enjoy the music however you like. You can talk, move, dance, and sing- there will be no shushing at these concerts!

There will also be scarves and shakers available if you would like to participate in the music.

During the concert you will see several small groups of musicians playing different instruments.

Including string instruments,

woodwinds,

percussion,

and brass!

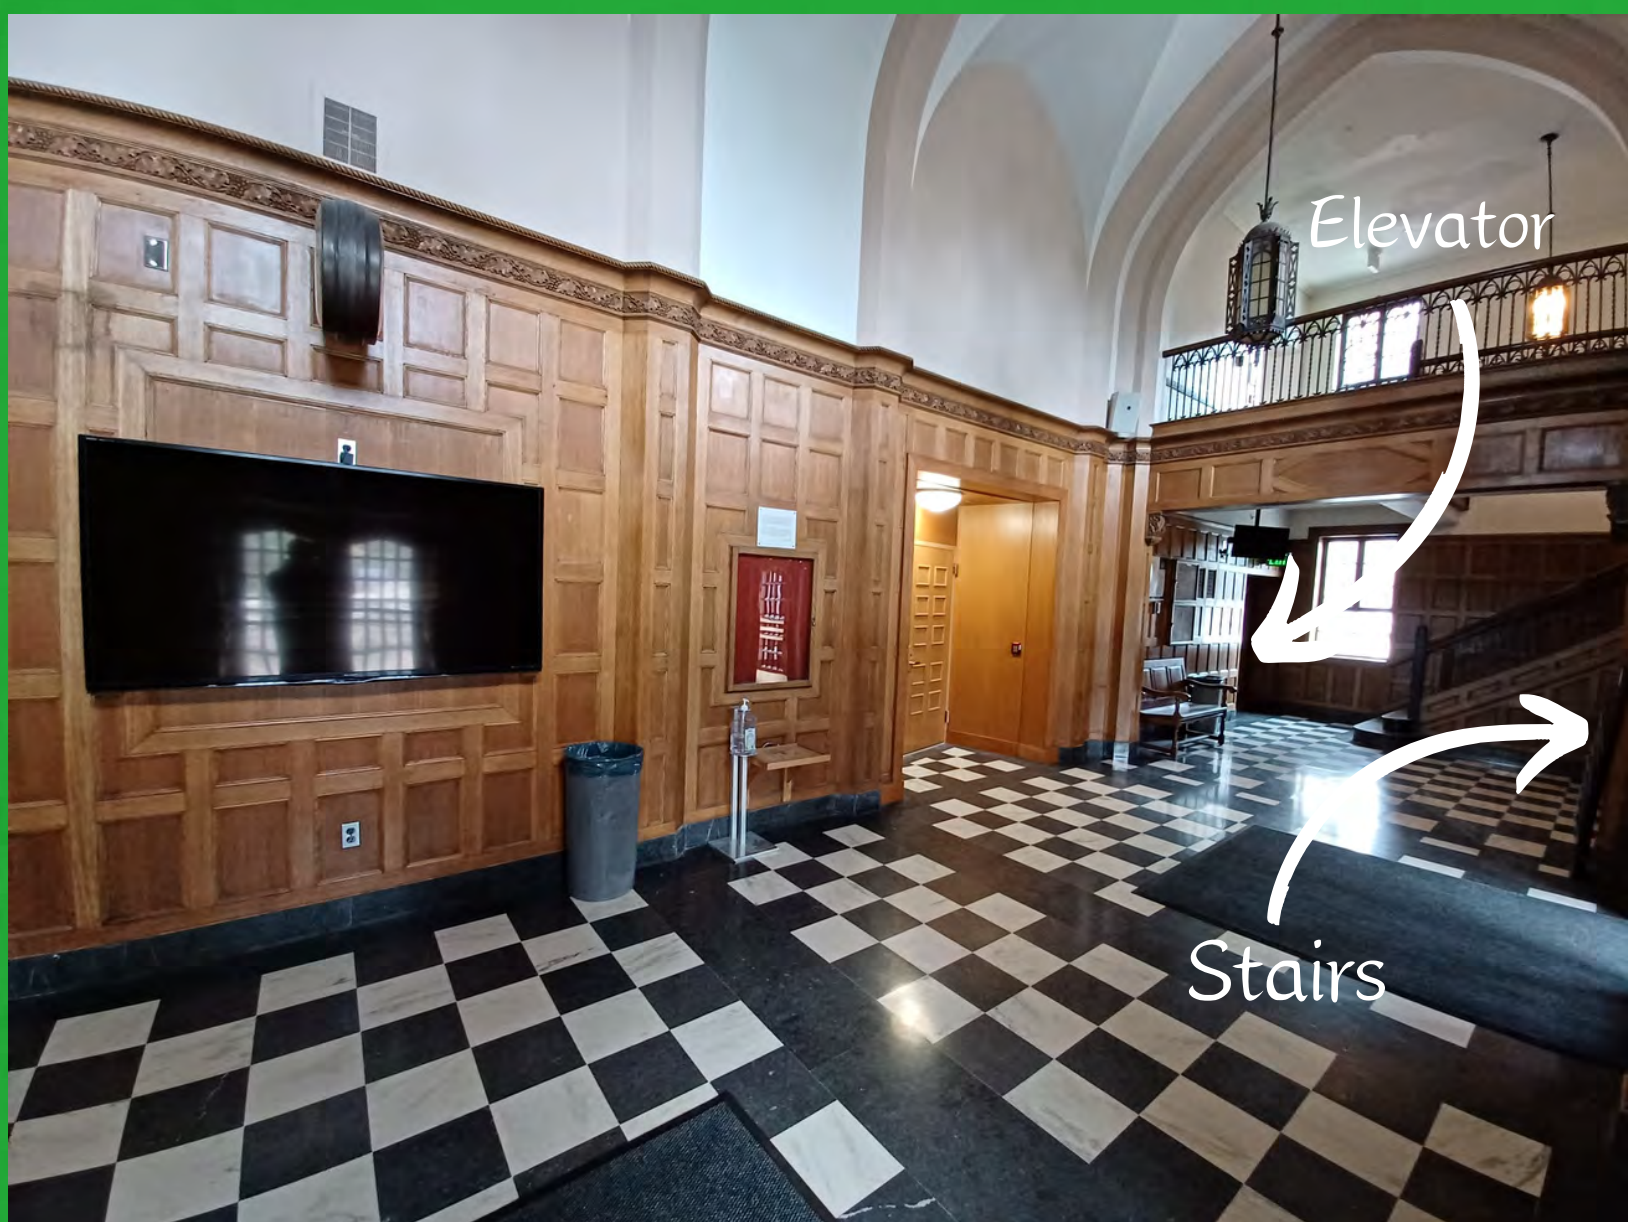

All of the musicians in this concert are students at the College of Music.

There are quiet areas available if you feel like you need a break at any time.

There are signs to direct you to the quiet areas. Or, feel free to ask a volunteer.

Take a bathroom break when you need to. The bathrooms are downstairs from the lobby, or you can take the elevator. Signs and volunteers can show you the way!

We hope you enjoy the concert and look forward to seeing you there!
